

Painting of Distribution Boxes Abroad

Overview

We consolidate the paint and ship it overseas in drums or five-gallon buckets made of plastic fabrics. We don't ship cans and quarts of paint containers because they may be made of cheap metal that can deteriorate or break down if exposed to server salty sea air and ocean water. Raider Painting offers comprehensive services, including cleaning, preparation, and the application of epoxy coatings that improve floor resilience and provide a lasting, polished finish. Distribution plants are specialized buildings where finished products are stored awaiting redistribution to. We understand the unique challenges of distribution centers: tight schedules, continuous operations, and specialized coating requirements Night and weekend work schedules to minimize operational disruption.
